Hononegah Community High School Gives Thanks For Carpet Donation in the INCubator Program

Hononegah Community High School gives special thanks to Lonnie's Carpet Max and Mohawk Flooring for their donation of carpet and installation to Hononegah's INCubator classroom. INCubator is an entrepreneurship course at Hononegah where students develop and implement actual business plans with the assistance of the teacher, Mr. Jason Brunke, local industry experts and entrepreneurs who volunteer their time to act as coaches and mentors. The program is entering its fifth year and has been compared to the popular television show Shark Tank.

Creating an entrepreneurial atmosphere in the INCubator classroom has been the goal since it started five years ago. Chromebook computers, white board surface tables, comfortable seating, 60-inch HD monitors, and an available conference area are all unique features of the INCubator classroom. Now because of the generous donation, the classroom is now capped with Mohawk Carpet Squares which creates a warm and welcoming environment for Hononegah's young entrepreneurs to develop their business skills. The kindness, support and donation from Lonnie's Carpet Max and Mohawk Flooring make the INCubator classroom a distinctive learning environment.
